About Langham

Langham Partnership, founded by John Stott, works alongside Christian leaders around the world, especially in the continents of the south and east, helping to equip them with skills and tools for growing the church with depth and maturity.

Three integrated programmes work in partnership with them in:

- planting national movements for continuous training in biblical preaching;
- providing preachers and seminaries with evangelical literature, and mentoring indigenous writers, editors and publishers;
- offering doctoral scholarships for theological leaders who will train the next generation of Bible teachers in their own countries.

EQUIPPING A NEW GENERATION OF BIBLE TEACHERS

'One of the greatest needs of the growing churches in Africa and throughout the Global South is well-trained pastors who can preach from the Bible with integrity, clarity and power.'

Dr David Zac Niringiye, Major African Church Leader

To help see this happen, Langham works alongside Christian leaders around the Majority World (Asia, Africa, Eastern Europe, South America, the Middle East and the Pacific) in three integrated programmes:

LANGHAM PREACHING establishes national movements for continuous training in expository biblical preaching

LANGHAM LITERATURE provides preachers and Bible colleges with evangelical literature, and mentors indigenous writers, editors and publishers

LANGHAM SCHOLARS offers doctoral scholarships for theological leaders who will lead churches and train the next generation of Bible teachers in their home countries

PREACHING > "Church ministers who use Biblical expository preaching are now seen as true servants of Christ. They communicate the Bible message faithfully, and not as those who preach their own thinking."

— Frank Luvanda, Langham Preaching Coordinator, Tanzania

LITERATURE > "Three fully robed Orthodox priests came knocking at my door, telling me that they'd been buying the Bible Commentaries we publish. One of them had been a trainee iconographer, about to devote his life to making icons for Orthodox worship. After a while he said, 'Now I don't want to spend my life doing this when the Bible makes it clear we have direct access to God through Christ who is alive.'"

— Dane Vivodic, CEO of Soteria, a Serbian evangelical publishing house supported by Langham.

SCHOLARS > "Undergoing a PhD was always a stepping stone for me, a means to be equipped for ministering to the Tongans but also to proclaim the gospel in any possible way that I can. I will always be first and foremost a servant of Christ, burdened with love for the Tongans and feel that I can do nothing else but preach and teach them the love of Christ."

— Ma'afu Palu, Langham Scholar who has returned to teach at Tonga's Sia'atoutai College.

LITERATURE > "With Langham's support, we hope to be able to publish 15-20 books each year, with more and more by Cambodian writers who really understand the heart of Cambodia."

— Savy Dith, Editor at Cambodia's only non-denominational evangelical publisher

Training faithful preachers of God's word.
Providing excellent tools for the job.
Investing in qualified leaders and teachers.

That's the mission of Langham Partnership.

Local church pastors and lay leaders play an essential role in bringing their people to biblical maturity.

That's why God gave them to the church: "so that the body of Christ may be built up...and become mature, attaining to the whole measure of the fullness of Christ." (Eph. 4:12b-13)

But many pastors and leaders lack any kind of training or basic resources to help them in this vital task, especially in the Majority World, where thousands of people are coming to faith in Jesus every day.

They should be equipping God's people, but they themselves are not equipped for the job.
